

Educational trips from overseas to Nagasaki Prefecture using Farm Stays (private lodging with agriculture, forestry and fishing experiences)

Nagasaki Prefecture

What are Farm Stays (private lodging with agriculture, forestry and fishing experiences)?

Formally referred to as “private lodging with agriculture, forestry and fishing experiences,” Farm Stays are an accommodation program in which visitors to agricultural, forestry and fishing localities in Japan are provided with experiences in these industries and accommodation in ordinary homes. Since the accommodation is provided in ordinary homes they afford a chance to interact with families and gain a deeper experience of Japanese culture.

This is an introduction to Educational trips from overseas to Nagasaki Prefecture using Farm Stays consisting of encounters with the charms of localities and their people.

〈1〉 Regarding accommodation

As the accommodation provided is in ordinary private homes the quota of participants per home is three to five people, and larger groups are spread amongst a number of different homes.

Meals are cooked by participants together with the hosts while learning about Japanese food from them, and then enjoyed together with the host family around the same dining table. Since the meals are all family cooking provided by each home the menus vary from one home to another.

In principle participants also share the toilets and bathrooms of the host family. Participants are requested to join with the host family in the preparation of meals, bedding and other everyday matters.

People from travel agencies and school personnel stay separately at nearby hotels. Prior consultation is required for those wishing to inspect the homes providing accommodation.

〈2〉 Regarding experiences

① Experiences at the homes providing accommodation

Those staying at homes take part in different experiences according to each household. In the case of farmers this is agricultural activities particular to the season, in the homes of fishermen it is fishing and so on. Interaction with the host family can be deepened while being taught by them.

② Experiences at places other than the accommodating home

There are specific locations for each of the agricultural, fishing and other experiences. It is possible to take part in either class- or group-size experiences, and for participants to choose the content of the experience activities.

① Nurturing strawberries

② Beach seine fishing

Comment from participant

I was given the chance to experience all sorts of things for the first time. The water melons were delicious and when I recall the taste of the freshly picked okra my mouth beings to water. The evening meal that the mother made using freshly picked vegetables was delicious, in fact it was more delicious than any food I have tasted anywhere else. I was also amazed by the starry skies that you never see in the city. I saw a shooting star but didn't have time to make a wish, nevertheless the memory of seeing the Milky Way and shooting stars with all the other participants is a beautiful one, and my most treasured souvenir. It was all such fun that I boasted about it to my family when I got home. The really kind XXX family are like a second family to me.

Comment from participant

I really enjoyed tasting the atmosphere of a Japanese home and mixing with the people of Matsuura. It was also great to directly sense the profound feelings of the organizers and their preparations behind the hospitality I experienced.

It was really great to get to pass time with the host family and chat with them late into the night.

I was able to enjoy the boat fishing experience thanks to the kind way in which the captain explained how to fish and what to be careful about. It was fun to see everybody having such a good time fishing.
